Dear John:

Having closed the transaction to purchase National Concrete Cutting, Inc. just under two months ago I wanted to send a letter to thank you for your guidance and counsel in my business search. While at the beginning the process was at times slow and frustrating – mostly due to my own actions - your advice and direction kept me moving forward, and your time tested process ensured that I could identify and discard the chaff and concentrate my focus on companies that warranted serious consideration.

To me, the advantage of working with you rather than dealing with brokers and similar individuals was that you were on my team and had no responsibility – fiduciary or otherwise – to anyone else. My interests were your interests, my concerns were your concerns, and in the end the team approach contributed to closing what I regard as a fair and equitable deal. The ability to have you available to use as a sounding board to toss things around with when things got tense and emotional in the negotiation process proved to be an added benefit for me. Additionally, the referrals you provided related to financing and legal work were invaluable.

Should a person be committed to purchasing a business, I would without hesitation recommend that they work with you to identify potential businesses, determine the right business to pursue, complete the appropriate due diligence and put a deal together that will benefit both parties.

Very truly yours,

Matthew P. Finnigan
President
